HON. A. E. WILLSON WILL BE HEARD TONIGHT ON ISSUES OF CAMPAIGN

Hon. James P. Smith Will Introduce Leader of Kentucky Republicans to Paducah Audience

WILLSON DATES.
Murray, Friday, 1:30.
Benton, Saturday, 1:30.
Woodville, Wednesday, Oct. 9, 1:30.
Grahamville, Oct. 9, 7:30.
Fulton, Thursday, Oct. 24.

The Hon. Augustus E. Willson, Republican nominee for governor, arrived at noon from Fulton, where he addressed a big meeting last night. He was accompanied by Capt. Edwin Farley and the following Republicans met him at the train: James P. Smith, nominee for mayor; W. T. Miller, E. R. Miller, E. E. Bell, H. C. Hoover, City Treasurer John J. Dorian, and T. N. Hazlip. Mr. Willson is stopping at the Palmer and this afternoon was the guest of Mr. James P. Smith, and was driven around the city and county in Mr. Smith's motor.

Mr. Willson was met at the hotel by his brother, H. A. Willson, and two nephews, H. E. and Morris Willson, of Carbondale, Ill., who had come over to Paducah to surprise him with a visit.

Mr. Willson will speak tonight at 7:30 o'clock at the corner of Fifth and Kentucky avenue, if the weather permits; if it is raining or threatening the speaking will be held in the court house. Mr. James P. Smith has been selected to introduce him.

Mr. Willson looks very well, and is standing the hard work of the campaign splendidly. At Mayfield he was greeted by a surprisingly large and enthusiastic crowd, and made a telling speech. At Fulton, Hickman and Bardwell,—everywhere he has been greeted by good size and enthusiastic crowds, and his reception in the First district indicates that he will poll a big vote in the old Gibraltar.

He is much pleased with the heavy Republican registration in Louisville and delighted with the reports the local Republicans had to make for Paducah, and he is sanguine of success.

Big Crowd at Mayfield.

The most splendid and enthusiastic assembly of Graves county citizens that ever turned out to greet a political candidate, filled the courthouse at Mayfield yesterday afternoon to listen to the doctrine of good government in Kentucky as preached by the Republican leader. Mr. Willson said after the meeting that it was one of the finest he had had during his campaign of the state and he was prouder of it than any other because of the great interest shown by the citizens of one of the banner Democratic strongholds.

When Mr. Willson rose to address his audience at Mayfield there were by actual count 265 men standing in the aisles and windows in the court room who were unable to obtain seats and many extra seats had been placed in the auditorium. It was a much larger and more representative audience of the county than that which greeted Governor Beckham and Congressman James last week.

In his tour of the First district the astounding pardon record made by Governor Beckham during his administration, has been Mr. Willson's especial target. He has shown by records taken from the books at Frankfort, how the governor has pardoned many murderers and those convicted of crimes against women solely for political advantage and personal gain and some of the old Democrats of this section have fairly gasped at the

In True Kentucky Style Evansvillians are Entertained

Eighty-two representative business men of Evansville, Ind., were elaborately entertained at The Palmer house last evening by Paducah business men with a "stag" banquet. The Evansville delegation was en route to Cairo to meet President Roosevelt, and on account of lateness of arrival here, no class of entertainment other than that arranged could be prepared.

The steamer John S. Hopkins was chartered by the Evansville delegation, and several days were consumed in placing it in condition. A start from Evansville was made yesterday morning at 7 o'clock, the boat reaching Paducah at 9 o'clock after making stops at Uniontown, Caseyville, Golconda, Mt. Vernon and Smithland. Some form of entertainment was prepared at each landing.

The Banquet.

At 10 o'clock guests assembled in the Palmer dining room. The long lines of tables were elaborately decorated and laden with every delicacy of the season. Judge D. H. Hughes presided as toastmaster and among visitors who responded to toasts were Congressman-elect Cox, Ex-Congressman Posey, Congressman Foster, C. Ferguson and the mayor of Evansville Paducahans responding to toasts were Hon. Hal S. Corbett, Mr. Sol Dreyfuss and President Earl Palmer of the board of aldermen.

The banquet was finished shortly after 12 o'clock, and guests were escorted to the boat. She pulled away shortly after the wharf was reached amid cheers from boat and levee. Guests were loud in praise and appreciation for the hospitality shown them.

RECEIPTS SHOW DEFICIT.

The Matinee association and Horse Show association directors are still engaged on their reports of last week's meets, and say it is not ready for publication yet. The attendance at the horse show was a surprise, however, as it was not as large as it was a year ago. The attendance at the races was disappointing, too, and the managements say there will be a deficit for both organizations. They are not discouraged, however, and are in favor of repeating the two events next year.

WHISKY MAY BE SHIPPED INTO DRY COUNTIES

Frankfort, Ky., Oct. 3.—In reversing the case of the Cincinnati Southern railroad against the commonwealth from Boyle county, the court of appeals today holds unconstitutional the law enacted by the last legislature, prohibiting the shipment of liquor into local option territory.

The court holds that the state has no power to regulate the interstate commerce of a common carrier. Beer was shipped from a Covington brewery to Cincinnati and thence back to Kentucky to Boyle county which is "dry."

ROCKEFELLER

Does Not Appear at Trial of Suit to Dissolve Standard.

New York, N. Y., Oct. 3.—When the hearing of the federal suit to dissolve the Standard company of New Jersey was resumed today, Deputy Attorney General Kellogg stated that he knew nothing of the report that Rockefeller was in New York. Kellogg said the oil king was not there to appear in the suit. It is said that Kellogg's resolution not to subpoena the Standard chiefs has caused considerable worry in the Standard headquarters.

WILL ASK FRANCHISE FOR INTERURBAN ROAD.

The Paducah and Hickman interurban railway will apply to the general council for a franchise and right of way into the city Monday night. The rights of way from here to Mayfield have all been secured, and as soon as the right-of-way into Paducah is secured the engineers will begin their work.

ACCIDENT AT RINK BUILDING.

The east wall of the skating rink fell today at noon, while the workmen were at luncheon, but no one was injured. The studdings had just been erected in the past two days and the high wind at noon blew the wall down.

Mother Dies in Indiana.

Henry U. Wilstach, of Fourth and Adams streets, was called to LaFayette, Ind., yesterday by the death of his mother, Mrs. P. E. Wilstach, who died of general debility. She was 80 years of age and had been declining in health for a year.

Suicide at Undertakers.

Columbus, O., Oct. 3.—May Reed telephoned from the undertakers to her home that she would never come back then she swallowed carbolic acid and died. No reason known for suicide.

Leave Dance for Fire.

Pittsburg, Pa., Oct. 3.—Call of gong proved too much for visiting firemen who were at a dance. They heard fire bells, and leaving their partners ran and helped put out the fire.

HUSBAND AGED 106 SUED FOR DIVORCE

Omaha, Oct. 3.—Simon Peter Roundtree, 106 years old, has been sued for divorce by his wife whom he married ten years ago. She charges her husband left her a year after their marriage.

JOHN P. SMITH PLEASED WITH REGISTRATION

Mr. James P. Smith, Republican nominee for mayor, returned home this morning from Rochester, Minn., and reports Mrs. Smith as having stood the operation very well, and convalescing rapidly. It will be some weeks yet, however, before she can be brought home. Mr. Smith was very well pleased with the heavy Republican registration Tuesday, and says it is but an evidence of the tremendous interest the people are taking in the coming election.

THE WEATHER.

VICTORY FOR G.O.P. IS INDICATED IN REGISTRATION

Republicans and Independents Have Majority of 3000 on Face of Returns From Louisville.

GAINS ARE MADE EVERYWHERE

Louisville, Ky., Oct. 3.—The registration Tuesday showed such tremendous and unexpected Republican and Independent gains and such a heavy Democratic loss that the machine workers are disheartened, while the Republican managers are jubilant.

BOY SCULPTORS PRESENT.

A bust of William McKinley carved out of granite stone by Robert Wilkins, son of Mr. Bob Wilkins, the blacksmith of South Eleventh street, has been mounted above the door at Carnegie Library, in present to the library from the young sculptor. The work is his maiden effort, and shows rare talent. The likeness is excellent and has been highly complimented. Young Wilkins is learning the trade of marble carving but desires to study sculpturing, and is thinking seriously of going to Italy within a year to begin studies.

It must also be remembered that the Democrats never hope to poll over 75 per cent of their registered vote. A careful watch on a number of precincts yesterday revealed the fact that 20 per cent of the registered Democrats openly avowed their intention of voting the Republican ticket, while many more intimated as much.

If past votes can be taken as a guide the majority for the Republican ticket on the face of Tuesday's registration alone is not less than 6,000.

Over the State.

Registration returns from all over the state received at Republican headquarters and party managers are jubilant today. It is plainly evident that the party has made unprecedented gains and a victory in November freely predicted.

STANLEY'S SPEECH CAN GO IN MAILS

Hopkinsville, Ky., Oct. 3.—Postmaster Breathitt, who, several days ago, refused to permit issues of the Hopkinsville papers, containing a four-page supplement, giving in its entirety the speech delivered here by the Hon. A. O. Stanley in defense of the Planters' Protective association, to go through the mails at the pound rates on the grounds that the supplement did not conform to the postal regulations, has received official notification from Washington that the supplement was near enough correct to have been passed. The Kentucky New Era and the Hopkinsville Independent had deposited enough money to pay for the issue of the paper at third-class rates of postage, and had sent the supplements out anyhow. The letter from the postal department instructs Postmaster Breathitt to refund to these papers the excess amount over and above the amount necessary to pay for the issue at the usual pound rates.

THE WEATHER.

Paducah has been thronged with visitors for two weeks, but the last delegations left today at noon, when the remaining Knights of Pythias delegates departed. There were about fifty in the party leaving today, and an extra coach had to be attached to the Louisville train to accommodate them.

Last week the horse show and races attracted big crowds everyday; the immigration convention brought a great number, and this week the Knights of Pythias convention was attended by probably 275 delegates.

Last night the Evansville delegates to the waterways convention were guests of the local business men for three hours, so, in all, the city has held out many attractions and entertained quite a few guests during the two weeks.

"Paducah made a good impression on all of its visitors," said a retail merchant today. "I had one caller last night who said he came through Louisville en route to Paducah and was on Fourth avenue and the other retail streets of Louisville, and admired the window decorations of the stores, but when he compared them to the windows in Paducah he was agreeably surprised to find that Paducah's were superior. Your city has the air of prosperity, too," he said in conclusion.

REV. FIELDS

Nominated for Lieut. Governor on Prohibition Ticket.

Rev. P. H. Fields, of Paducah, has been nominated for Lieutenant governor by the Prohibitionists in place of the Rev. L. D. Hocker, who is ill.

Library Board Meeting.

President E. W. Babby, of the Carnegie library board, has called a special meeting of the board to transact routine business. He was out of the city Tuesday night when the regular meeting should have been held.

IMMENSE THRONG GATHERS TO GREET THE PRESIDENT IN EGYPTIAN CITY TODAY

Executive Will Advocate Expenditure for Nine Foot Water Stage from Pittsburg to Cairo.

Anxieties over the stage of the river when the city of Paducah is ready to present to the U. S. gunboat Paducah a handsome silver service, is felt as keenly in Washington, as it is by interested city officials and citizens, and yesterday letter reached Mayor D. A. Yelser from Congressman Otto James regarding the probable date of presentation.

Enclosed with Congressman James letter came a letter from navy department officials asking for the date.

Mayor Yelser replied immediately, stating that he expected word from the jewelers who are preparing the silver service daily, and as soon as he definitely learns the date, will advise by wire.

The letter from Washington stated that as soon as the date was known, authority to proceed to Paducah or "as near in the vicinity as permitted by the stage of rivers," will be given.

An examination of the figures shows the most surprising results. In round numbers 1,500 less Democrats were registered Tuesday than on the first day of registration in 1905. In round numbers 6,000 more Republicans were registered than on the same day in 1905. In addition to this the Independent vote which will go almost unanimously to the Republican ticket is considerably larger. Nothing like this was ever known before in Louisville, and if registration figures can be taken as a guide, Mr. Tyler will be defeated by the largest vote ever given against a candidate in Louisville.

In round numbers the registration Tuesday was divided about as follows:

Democrats, 15,500.
Republicans, 13,000.
Independents, 5,500.

Thus it will be seen the Republicans and Independents combined have a majority on the face of the returns of 3,000.

It must also be remembered that the Democrats never hope to poll over 75 per cent of their registered vote. A careful watch on a number of precincts yesterday revealed the fact that 20 per cent of the registered Democrats openly avowed their intention of voting the Republican ticket, while many more intimated as much.

If past votes can be taken as a guide the majority for the Republican ticket on the face of Tuesday's registration alone is not less than 6,000.

Over the State.

Registration returns from all over the state received at Republican headquarters and party managers are jubilant today. It is plainly evident that the party has made unprecedented gains and a victory in November freely predicted.

Two little tug boats gaily bedecked for harbor patrols had towed a barge to the middle of the river on which was a section of the Danville battery which fired the president's salute of 21 guns.

At 9 o'clock the president came ashore and was greeted by Governor Deneen and reception committee.

Seated in a laudeau drawn by six beautiful white horses the president was driven up the magnificent driveway which had been built especially for the occasion.

All along the route to St. Mary's park where the president was to speak, thousands of people crowded and strained their necks in an effort to get a glimpse of the nation's ruler. The park was reached without incident, the very best order being maintained by the police.

Cause of Dickens' Wrath.
Mayor Parsons in introducing Governor Deneen, who in turn introduced the president, said that when Charles Dickens made his trip through the Mississippi valley he stopped at an inn in Paducah. The landlord elated over having such a distinguished guest, proposed to Dickens to show him the town. To be addressed in such familiar terms by an keeper enraged Dickens which later brought forth his criticism of the entire valley.

The president's reference to the improvement of the rivers and harbors brought forth tremendous applause. During his speech he said he believed that the coast line of the United States should extend around from the Pacific to the Atlantic by way of the Gulf of Mexico through the Mississippi to the Great Lakes. To bring this about a nine foot stage would be needed from Pittsburg to Cairo, and he would advocate the use of the government's money for the purpose.

The president's speech is as follows in part:

"Men of Illinois, and You, Men of Kentucky and Missouri:

"I am glad to have the chance to speak to you today. This is the heart of what may be called the old west, which we now call the middle west, using the term to denote that great group of rich and powerful states which literally forms the heart of the country. It is a region whose people are distinctively American in all their thoughts, in all their ways of looking at life; and in its past and its present alike it is typical of our country. The oldest men present can still remember the pioneer days, the days of the white-tipped ox wagon, of the emigrant and of the log cabin in which that emigrant first lived when he settled to his task as a pioneer farmer. They were rough days, days of hard work, and the people who did that work seemed themselves uncouth and forbidding to visitors, who could not look below the surface. It is curious and amusing to think that even as genuine a lover of his kind, a man normally so free from national prejudices as Charles Dickens, should have selected the region where we are now standing as the seat of his farce 'Eden' in Martin Chuzzlewit. The country he so bitterly assailed is now one of the most fertile and productive portions of one of the most fertile and productive agricultural territories in all the world, and the dwellers in this territory represent a higher average of comfort, intelligence, and sturdy capacity for self-government than the people in any tract of like extent in any other continent. The land teems with beauty and fertility, and but a score of years after Dickens wrote it was shown to be a nursery and breeding ground of heroes, of soldiers and statesmen of the highest rank, while the rugged worth of the rank and file of the citizenship rendered possible the deeds of the mighty men who led in council and in battle. This was the region that brought forth mighty Abraham Lincoln, the incarnation of all that is best in democratic life; and from the loins of the same people, living only a little farther south, sprang another of our greatest presidents, Andrew Jackson, 'Old Hickory'—a man who made mistakes, like most strong men, but a man of iron will and incorruptible integrity, fearless, upright, devoted to the welfare of his countrymen, bone of our bone and flesh of our flesh, a typical American if ever there was one.

"I commend a careful reading of Martin Chuzzlewit to the pessimists of today, to the men who, instead of fighting hard to do away with abuses while at the same time losing no jot of their buoyant hopefulness for the country, insist that all our people, socially and industrially, in their private lives no less than as politicians, newspaper men, and business men, are at lower ebb than ever before. If ever anyone of you feels a little downcast over the peculiarly gloomy view

A Woman's Health

Is a heritage too sacred to be experimented with. For her peculiar and delicate ailments only medicines of known composition and which contain no alcohol, narcotics, or other harmful or habit-forming drugs should be employed. The one medicine which fulfills all these requirements is Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription—a remedy with a record of over forty years of cures to recommend it; a remedy, the makers of which print its formula on every bottle-wrapper and attest its completeness and correctness under oath; a remedy devised and adapted to woman's delicate constitution by an educated physician—an experienced specialist in woman's diseases; a remedy, every ingredient of which has received the written endorsement of the most eminent medical writers of all the several schools of practice for the cure of woman's peculiar diseases; a remedy which has more bona-fide cures to its credit than any other sold by druggists for woman's special requirements. It is not given away in the form of "trial bottles" to be experimented with, but is sold at a fair price by all dealers in medicines.

Delicate, weak, nervous women should especially shun the use of alcoholic medicines which, from their stimulating and exhilarating effects may seem, for a time, to do good, but which from the inevitable effects of the alcohol in shrinking up the red corpuscles of the blood are sure to do great and lasting harm in the long run. Besides they beget a craving for stimulants which is most deplorable.

Only invigorating and nerve strengthening effects can follow the use of this famous medicine for women. It can not possibly do harm in any state or condition of the system. It has been carefully adapted to woman's needs by an experienced physician—a specialist in their diseases. It makes weak women strong and sick women well.

If a woman has bearing down, or dragging pains, low down in the abdomen, or pelvis, backache, frequent headaches, dizzy or fainting spells, is nervous and easily startled, has a gnawing feeling in stomach, sees imaginary floating specks, or spots before her eyes, has melancholia, or "blues," or a weakening disagreeable drain from pelvic organs, she can make no mistake by resorting to the use of Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription. It will invigorate and tone up the whole system and especially the pelvic organs.

Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription is a scientific medicine, carefully devised by an experienced and skillful physician, and adapted to woman's delicate system. It is made of native American medicinal roots and perfectly harmless in its effects in any condition of the female system.

As a powerful invigorating tonic, "Favorite Prescription" imparts strength to the whole system and to the organs distinctly feminine in particular. For over-worked, "worn-out," run-down, debilitated teachers, milliners, dressmakers, seamstresses, "shop-girls," housekeepers, nursing mothers, and feeble women generally, Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription is the greatest earthly boon, being unequalled as an appetizing cordial and restorative tonic.

As a soothing and strengthening nerve "Favorite Prescription" is unequalled and is invaluable in allaying and subduing nervous excitability, irritability, nervous exhaustion, nervous prostration, neuralgia, hysteria, spasms, St. Vitus' dance, and other distressing nervous symptoms commonly attendant upon functional and organic disease of the uterus. It induces refreshing sleep and relieves mental anxiety and depression.

No woman suffering from any of the above symptoms can afford to accept any secret nostrum or medicine of unknown composition, as a substitute for a medicine like Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription, which is of known composition and has a record of over forty years of cures and sells more largely to-day than ever before. Its makers withhold no secrets from their patients, leaving open publicity to be the very best guaranty of merit.

Dr. Pierce invites all suffering women to consult him by letter free of charge. All letters of consultation are held as strictly private and sacredly confidential and all answers are returned in plain, sealed envelopes. Address: Dr. R. V. Pierce, Invalids' Hotel and Surgical Institute, Buffalo, N. Y.

Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets cure constipation. Constipation is the cause of many diseases. Cure the cause and you cure the disease. One "Pellet" is a gentle laxative, and two a mild cathartic. Druggists sell them, and nothing is "just as good." They are the original Little Liver Pills first put up by old Dr. Pierce over 40 years ago. Much imitated, but never equaled. They are tiny sugar-coated granules—easy to take as candy.

Dr. Pierce's great thousand-page illustrated Common Sense Medical Adviser will be sent free, paper-bound, for 21 one-cent stamps, or cloth-bound for 31 stamps. Address Dr. Pierce as above.

SAYS PROHIBITIONISTS DRINK.

Candidate Holds Party Is Not a Total Abstinence Society.

Pittsburg, Oct. 3.—M. H. Stevens, of this city, candidate for state treasurer on the Prohibition ticket, in an address at West Bridgewater said:

"I was surprised the other day, when a man twitted me because he heard of a prohibitionist who got drunk occasionally. The Prohibition party is not a church, nor a total abstinence society, but a political party. Many fail to note this distinction. We have hundreds of drunkards in the United States and would like to see the temptation removed. The inconsistent fellow is the judge, perhaps an elder in a church who grants licenses, and the Sunday school superintendent who votes for license party. To be consistent they should go at least once a week to the saloon they vote for and get drunk."

All is in readiness for the Paducah high school football squad's initial game with Metropolis High school team Saturday at Metropolis, and a better conditioned class of gridiron heroes for the length of training they have had, can be found nowhere. This afternoon and tomorrow afternoon final practice will be held. Friday afternoon at the close of training a selection of the eleven men who will battle for the High school colors, will be made. There are about 20 working for a place on the team, and all are in good condition. Enough substitutes will be taken down to replace the entire team, this for emergencies.

Noted Educator Speaks.

This morning Prof. McHenry Rhoads, superintendent of schools at Owensboro, who was here to attend the Knights of Pythias grand lodge meeting, addressed the High school in the auditorium. His address bore on school work, was interesting and greatly appreciated.

Decrease in High School.

Tomorrow will conclude the first month in city schools, and while the enrollment will show an increase in white schools, will mark a decrease in the white High school. The cause of this decrease is attributed to pupils quitting school after leaving the departments, also after passing through the eleventh grade. The fact that last year took away one large class, the graduating class which had been an addition because of the lack of one more grade, is also a factor in the decrease.

During the year 1906 the first school month showed a total of 123 girls and 47 boys in the High school, a grand total of 170 pupils. This year girls number 110 and boys 45, a grand total of 155, a decrease of fifteen. Fully sixty pupils will graduate from the departments at the close of the first term, which will swell the enrollment far above that of last year.

While confusion characterized the first three weeks of school because of resignations, illness and congestion, the last week will show a remarkable steadiness of work.

Notice.
The annual meeting of the stockholders of the Langstaff-Orme Manufacturing company will be held at their office in Paducah, Ky., on the 9th day of October, 1907.

LISTEN TO THIS ADVICE.

Thousands Will Benefit if Statement Made Is Only Partly True.

It may be that some persons will be inclined to doubt the statement made by an eminent authority, at a recent meeting, that with a mixture of dandelion, kargon and sarsaparilla, he would give prompt relief to any sufferer of rheumatism or the usual forms of backache, caused by inactive clogged kidneys, yet many cases of long standing that had been entirely relieved were cited to prove the truth of his assertion. The same authority further stated that many cases which failed to yield to the healing waters of the famous health resorts, or the usual remedies as prescribed, salicylate of soda, potash, colchicum, etc.—were readily relieved by the use of this simple mixture—Fluid Extract Dandelion, one-half ounce; Compound Kargon, one ounce; Compound Syrup Sarsaparilla, three ounces. Take a teaspoonful dose after meals and at bedtime.

A well-known druggist, when approached upon the subject, stated that while this prescription, as written, is new, the ingredients are continually prescribed by the best physicians, and any good prescription pharmacy has them; they are inexpensive and harmless to use, and are mixed by shaking well in a bottle.

If the claims made for this mixture, are only partly correct, it would seem that no sufferer here could afford to leave the prescription untried.

DEATH OF BROTHER RECALLS CAPTAIN

Sad News For Commander of The Hopkins.

Was on Way to Memphis With Boat Carrying Evansville Business Men to Convention.

MANY RELATIVES ARE HERE,

John Gilbert, 54 years old, died in Golconda, Ill., Wednesday afternoon suddenly of a complication of diseases after a six months' illness. His death came suddenly, and was caused more directly by heart disease, of which he had suffered for years. News of his death reached Paducah last night when the steamer John S. Hopkins reached Paducah. In command of the boat was Captain Harry Gilbert, of Evansville, a brother of the deceased, who was apprised of his brother's sudden death when the boat landed with 82 Evansville business men en route to Memphis, aboard Captain Gilbert was unable to leave his boat and came on to Paducah, where a substitute captain was secured, Captain Gilbert turning back this morning.

The deceased was born and raised in Pope county, and in his early life went into the river business, managing the Golconda wharfboat. He accumulated wealth rapidly and 26 years ago married Miss Monie Kidd, of this city. His wife died 16 years later and after a year he married Miss Lucy Moore, of Golconda, but leaves no children by the second marriage. After leaving the river service he went into the mercantile business, and later assumed control of the Pope county bank after his father's death. He served one term as mayor of Golconda and was always prominently connected with all church and temperance moves.

The deceased leaves a wife and three children. They are Raymond Gilbert, Ethel Gilbert and John Gilbert. The two former often visited in Paducah, and are well known here. His brothers and sisters are Messrs. Will and Harry Gilbert, Evansville; Mrs. Fannie Fields and Miss Minnie Gilbert, of Golconda. He leaves the following brother and sister-in-laws, relatives of his first wife: Mrs. J. R. Puryear, Mrs. Frank Dunn and Mrs. A. D. Rollston, city; Mrs. Will R. Purcell, St. Louis, and Mr. W. C. Kidd, deputy circuit clerk, city.

No funeral arrangements have been announced.

Merit is not recognized as quickly as influence, but it holds what it gets longer.

Liver Pills

Ask your doctor if he knows a better pill for a sluggish liver than Ayer's Pills. Then follow his advice.

It is impossible, simply impossible, for any one to enjoy the best of health if the bowels are constipated. Undigested material, waste products, poisonous substances, must be daily removed from the body or there will be trouble, and often serious trouble, too. Ayer's Pills aid nature, that is all.

The Belvedere Malting Process secures all of the nutriment in the barley-grain, which the Belvedere Perfect Brewing Process transmits to the beer in predigested form.

Belvedere Beer, rich in malt and tonic properties of hops, makes an ideal drink at meals or between meals, aiding digestion and soothing nerves.

TO PROSECUTE HARVESTER TRUST

Townsend Hurries to Washington With Evidence

Attorney General Bonaparte Decides to Proceed Regardless of Smith's Report.

WHISKEY TRUST COMES NEXT.

Washington, Oct. 3.—Speedy prosecution of the International Harvester Trust, in which Chicago people hold over $100,000,000 of its $120,000,000 capitalization was assured today when Attorney General Bonaparte telephoned to Assistant Attorney General B. D. Townsend at Portland, Ore., to come to the capital at once.

Mr. Townsend has been in charge of the task of getting evidence summer. Since that time he has traveled over the country in search of new facts. Even during the vacation of Attorney General Bonaparte he received reports from his assistant upon the progress of the work.

The department of justice has indicated that it would rather go after the Harvester Trust at once. In a long conference held this afternoon the attorney general went over the ground with his assistants.

The delay in starting the prosecution is alleged to have been due to the failure of the department of commerce and labor to comply with the request made more than a year ago for a report upon the Harvester people! Up to noon today this report had not been received. James A. Garfield was commissioner of corporations when the report was requested and Herbert Knox Smith, another of the president's tennis cabinet, succeeded him.

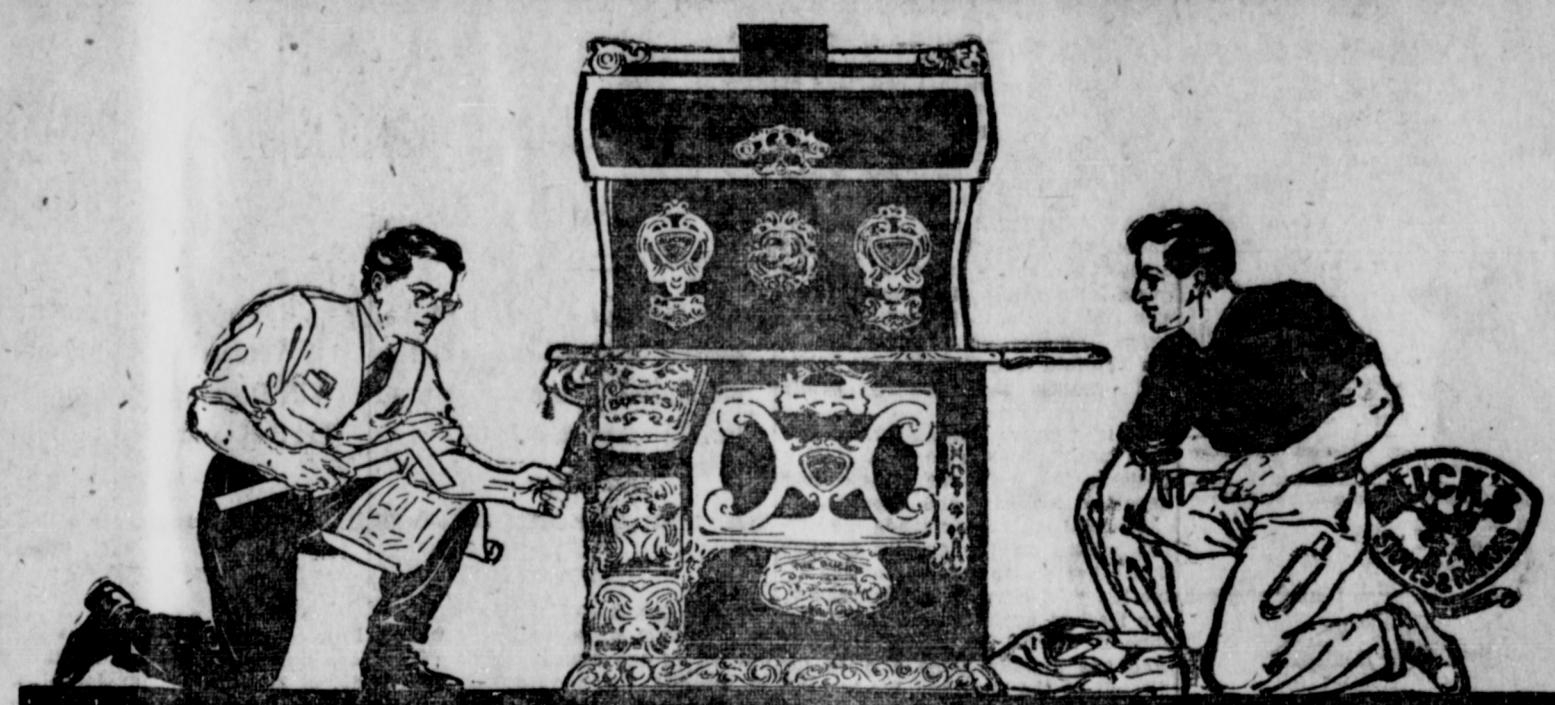

Weary of waiting for this departmental report, it is now stated that the department of justice is determined to proceed upon Mr. Townsend's report, whether or not the bureau of corporations makes its long-delayed statement.

It was stated upon authority today that the prosecution could not commence until Mr. Townsend reached Washington. Under the Sherman law all prosecutions must be brought by the district attorneys "under the direction of the attorney general of the United States." It will, therefore, be necessary for Mr. Townsend to hold a conference with the attorney general before Mr. Sims can proceed at Chicago, "under the direction of the attorney general."

Mr. Townsend, it is stated, had visited nearly all of the places where the trust does business upon a restrictive basis. His presence at Washington is demanded not so much for the purpose of adding to the reports he has made, but to explain portions of them.

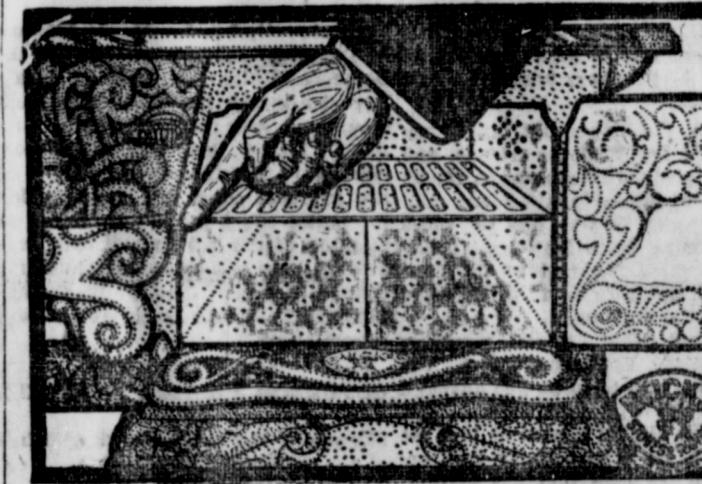

The attorney general himself has assumed charge of the Harvester matter.

It was stated here today that among the trust matters taken up by the attorney general is a prospective prosecution of the whiskey trust.

ROOSEVELT'S SPEECH

read by us now with profit; Elijah Program, Hannibal Chellon, Jefferson Bricks and Seader have their representatives today, plenty of them; and the wise thing for us to do is to recognize that these are still types of evil in politics, journalism, business, and private life, and to war against them with all our hearts. But it is rank folly to regard these as the only, or the chief, types in our national life. It was not of much consequence whether Dickens made such an error or not, but it would be of great consequence if we ourselves did; for a foolish pessimism is an even greater foe of healthy national growth than a foolish optimism. It was not that Dickens invented characters or scenes that had no basis in fact; on the contrary, what he said was true, as far as it went; the trouble was that out of many such half truths he made a picture which as a whole was absurd; for often a half truth is the most dangerous falsehood. It would be simply silly to be angry over Martin Chuzzlewit; on the contrary, read it, be amused by it, profit by it; and don't be misled by it. Keep a lively watch against the present day Programs and Bricks; but above all, distrust the man who would persuade you to feel downhearted about the country because of these same Programs and Bricks, past or present. It would be foolish to ignore their existence, or the existence of anything else that is bad in our national life; but it would be even more foolish to ignore the vaster forces that tell for righteousness. Friends, there is every reason why we should fight whatever is evil in the present. But there is also every reason why we should feel sturdy and confident hope for the future. There are many wrongs to right; there are many and powerful wrongdoers against whom to war; and it would be base to shrink from the contest, or to fail to wage it with a high, a resolute will. But I am sure that we shall win in the contest, because I know that the heart of our people is sound. Our average men and women are good men and women—and this is true in all sections of our country and among all classes of our countrymen. There is no other nation on earth with such vast natural resources, or with such a high standard of living and of industrial efficiency among its workers. We have as a nation an era of unexampled prosperity ahead of us; we shall enjoy it, and our children will enjoy it after us. The trend of well-being in this country is upward, not downward; and this is the trend in the things of the soul as well as in the things of the body.

On Public Affairs.

"Government in its application is often a complicated and delicate work, but the principles of government are, after all, fairly simple. In a broad general way we should apply in the affairs of the national administration, which deals with the interests of all our eighty-odd millions of people, just the same rules that are necessary in getting on with our neighbors in our several neighborhoods; and the nation as a whole should show substantially the same qualities that we would expect an honorable man to show in dealing with his fellows. To illustrate this, consider for a moment two phases of governmental action.

International Affairs.

THE CITY ATTORNEY.

How many people realize the importance of having a man as police court prosecutor, who is clean in mind and heart and manner of living;

a man of broad, quickly awakened sympathies for the unfortunate, of unswerving firmness with the criminals; a young man aspiring to greater things through the right accomplishment of the duties that lie before him?

There is opportunity for the display of judgment in the police court.

There are also opportunities for the grossest corruption and connivance with crime, if a man is desirous of playing the game of politics with the fortunes of the criminals and unfortunates as pawns. There is every sort of influence and pressure brought to bear on the police court prosecutor, and to withstand them he must have a character of unusual resisting qualities. He has to deal with a class that plays politics as the complement of their vicious vocations, and who know how to find and reach a man's weak points.

At the same time, if he is a man of feeling, he will see opportunities for works of reform and of mercy. He stands there in that cess pool of crime and degeneracy, the catch basin of all that is foul and vile in the life of the community, representing the social order, exercising discretion, tact and firmness, striking out of the social life that which is most undesirable, waging a vigorous fight against the accumulation of dangerous elements, snatching from the flotsam and jetsam, that which is not yet beyond redemption, ever recognizing his two-fold duty towards his public and towards the humanity before him.

It is a grave duty, a graver one than most people recognize. It is a position that calls for conscientious devotion, sincerity and capacity. Recognizing the demands of the office makes on its incumbent, The Sun takes pleasure in calling the attention of the voters of Paducah to the marked qualifications of Mr. Arthur Y. Martin, a young attorney, who has already made a place for himself at the local bar. We bespeak nothing more for him than a careful investigation by the voters.

Regardless of Watterson's attitude in the state campaign, Governor Johnson, of Minnesota, still has faith in his judgment.

Pierpont Morgan's portrait was sold to a saloonkeeper by the custom house authorities in New York. Think of Pierpont's likeness being used for the "Picture on the Barroom Floor."

Registrations count in elections, and the Republicans of Paducah, and that great body of Democrats, who believe in honest government, have cause to congratulate themselves on the first day's showing. But there are many more votes to be gotten out. Both sides were surprised yesterday at the work of the other. There will be another registration October 16 (mark the date) and every Republican should constitute himself a committee to get out the voters.

THIS WON'T DO, MR. HAGER.

For the first time since The Herald gave to the voters a full and authoritative statement of Semonin's dealings with the state auditor's department, Mr. Hager has attempted a reply and explanation. Of all the many lame statements that have issued from that gentleman in his efforts to defend a lost cause this latest is the most decrepit.

In the first place, Mr. Hager, with a lack of manliness that throws a discreditable sidelight on his character, tries to put the blame for his own neglect on the man who is down and out. He says Semonin must have dated some of his checks back.

Suppose this were true, does it excuse the state auditor? The dating back of checks practiced with the regularity that it must have been, accepting Hager's version, would in itself be a proof that something was wrong to a vigilant official. Only the grossest incompetence could account for its being overlooked. Does Mr. Hager offer incompetence as an apology for his failure to act? If so, he has given excellent reason for rejecting him as a candidate for higher office.

In the second place, he pleads that a clerk in the office may have been tardy to the extent of a day or so in recording the checks. But this does not explain a month's delay, and even longer in some cases. A clerk so dilatory as that should long ago have been dismissed from the service of the state. Mr. Hager is responsible for his clerks.

In the third place, he fails to make any explanation at all of the fact that there was no check for March, 1907. He simply says nothing about it.

Mr. Hager, when asked about this matter in Louisville, you questioned the accuracy of The Herald's story, and said you were going back to Frankfort to look at your books? You have evidently done so. Will you tell the public what you found? Will you explain why there was no check for March, 1907? You cannot dodge the issue or ignore the charges in this way. You were either incompetent as state auditor, or you were a party to the irregularities in Semonin's dealings with your department. In either case you are unfit to be entrusted with the governorship of this state, Louisville Herald.

BIG FACTORY BURNED AT EVANSVILLE, IND.

Evansville, Ind., Oct. 3.—Fire that is believed to have been of incendiary origin destroyed the plant of the American Lamp Glass company. The loss is $100,000, with but $40,000 insurance. The fire originated in the grinding room, which was always kept locked. The plant will probably be rebuilt. The factory employed over 300 hands.

M'CREEARY WILL NOT BE A CANDIDATE.

Richmond, Ky., Oct. 3.—Senator James B. McCreary said today that he is very thankful to editors of newspapers and to many friends and to members of Confederate camps for their kind and complimentary reference to him as a Democrat who should be a candidate for vice president on the next national Democratic ticket. He also said he is not a candidate for vice president.

SENATOR BORAH IS NOT GUILTY OF LAND FRAUDS

Jury Returns Verdict of Acquittal on First Ballot—Remarkable Demonstration of Public Approval

THE FIRE DEPARTMENT JOINS

SAYS SHE ACTED AS MESSENGER

Bolse, Oct. 3.—United States Senator William E. Borah last night acquitted of the charge of conspiracy to defraud the government out of valuable Idaho timber lands. The case was submitted without argument on the part of the defense and the jury was out just long enough to take one ballot. The verdict was greeted by cheers and applause, which the court officers made no effort to restrain. This demonstration in the court room served only as a beginning. As soon as the news reached the outside, bells were rung and the fire department made spectacular run through the principle streets, stopping eventually at the Idaho Hotel, where Senator Borah, surrounded by several hundred of his fellow citizens, was escorted. Senator Borah thanked his hearers for their demonstration and for the confidence they had reposed in him throughout the trial.

Lexington, Ky., Oct. 3.—Caleb Powers, now in Georgetown jail, awaiting his fourth trial for the murder of Senator William Goebel, when told of the charges in the indictment for subversion of perjury by the Franklin county grand jury, said:

"It is an infamous outrage. The circuit court is now in session at Frankfort, and will be until the end of this week. I am ready and demand a trial on these false charges before the circuit court ends this week. I may give out a written statement later in the day."

Caleb Powers has today telegraphed to Commonwealth's Attorney R. B. Franklin demanding an immediate trial on the charges against him.

Memsic Assumes Gans' Role.

Followers of Sport Do Not Take Champion's Retirement Seriously.

Los Angeles, Oct. 3.—That Joe Gans is somewhat overtrained, and that he intends to retire from the ring for a few months, is the belief of most of the followers to whom the coordinated champion announced that he was going to quit the game today.
While no one believes that he is going to abandon the game permanently, his showing in the recent bout with Memsic led spectators to think that he is getting rather "stale" and that he realizes the fact.

To remain in the lime-light as champion would subject him to numerous challenges. Just at present, few bouts in which he figured would prove a really first class drawing card. Memsic has announced that he will "defend" the title of lightweight champion. Inasmuch as Gans was evidently not in his pristine form when he fought George, it is somewhat hard to see just where Memsic has any claim to defending the honors of the division.

Gans admitted that he might return to the ring later, but announced that he was going back to Baltimore for the time. He said that he intended to have a long rest, but that he might consider an offer to meet Pakkie McFarland on Abe Attell.

Benton Court.

Circuit Judge W. M. Reed, accom-

Berry acted for him, continuing cases over empanneling of juries until last Monday when Judge Reed went down and rushed business through. The grand jury returned 32 indictments, mostly for small offenses. The term was uneventful.

Mrs. Pette Allen and son Miller,

ITCH IN THE SKIN, NOT IN THE BLOOD.

People With Eczema, Etc., Make Grievous Error by Taking Medicine Into the Stomach.

When your hand is scalded with sun
hot water until it blisters and burns, you don't drink medicine to cure it.
You apply a healing lotion to the injured skin.

Eczema, psoriasis, salt rheum, barber's itch and other such diseases of the skin cannot be cured by filling the stomach with medicine any more.

Mr. R. A. Jones, the poultry man you can cure a burn by drinking medicine. To cure these diseases you must apply the remedy on the part affected. The diseases named are caused by germs in the skin. Kill the germs and the disease goes away and the skin is left pure and white as nature intended it to be.

That mild, simple liquid, oil of wintergreen, properly compounded in D. D. D. Prescription routs the germs and heals the skin so perfectly that you can never tell where the disease was.

"No tongue can tell nor pen portray what I suffered for ten years from Eczema," writes Mrs. R. R.
Latta, of Garrison, Mo. "I was treated by the best doctors in the west, but received no benefit. Three bottles of D. D. D. cured me sound and well. Six or eight months have passed and there is no sign of a return.
My advice to all is, don't delay. Begin the use of D. D. D. at once and be cured."

We have carried D. D. D. for a long time because we know it takes away the itch and we believe it to be an infallible remedy in the treatment of Eczema and other skin diseases.

refusal to take those measures of preparation which can alone secure us from aggression on the part of others. The policy of "peace with insult" is the very worst policy upon which it is possible to embark, whether for a nation or an individual. To be rich, unarmed, and yet insolent and aggressive, is to court well-nigh certain disaster. The only safe and honorable rule of foreign policy for the United States is to show itself courteous toward other nations, scrupulous not to infringe upon their rights, and yet able and ready to defend its own. This nation is now on terms of most cordial good will with all other nations. Let us make it a prime object of our policy to preserve these conditions. To do so it is necessary on the one hand to mete out a generous justice to all other peoples and show them courtesy and respect; and on the other hand, as we are yet a good way off from the millennium, to keep ourselves in such shape as to make it evident to all men that we desire peace because we think it is just and right and not from motives of weakness or timidity.

S.S.S. CURES.
SKIN DISEASES

No skin disease can exist without an underlying cause, and in most instances that cause is either a humor in the blood or an excess of fiery acids in this vital fluid. These humors and acids get into the blood, generally because of an inactive and sluggish condition of those members whose duty it is to collect and carry off the waste and refuse of the body. This unhealthy matter is left in the system to sour and ferment, and soon the circulation becomes charged with the acid poison. The blood, in its effort to rid itself of this foreign matter, begins to throw off the humors and acids through the pores and glands of the skin. These coming in contact with the delicate tissues and fibers with which the skin is so abundantly supplied produces irritation and inflammation on the surface, and Eczema, Acne, Tetter, Psoriasis, Salt Rheum, or some other troublesome and disfiguring skin disease is the result. External applications, while they soothe the itching, and are beneficial in keeping the skin clean, can never cure skin affections, because they do not reach the blood where the real trouble is located. A thorough cleansing of the blood is the only permanent cure for skin diseases. S. S. S., the greatest of all blood purifiers, is the best treatment. It cures by neutralizing the acids and removing the humors from the circulation so that the skin, instead of being irritated and diseased by the exuding acid matter, is nourished and soothed by a cooling, healthy stream of blood. S. S. S. goes down to the very bottom of the trouble, removes the foreign matter and thereby permanently cures every form of skin trouble. Do not expect to cure a blood disease with local applications alone, but begin the use of S. S. S., and when you have removed the cause the skin will be free from disease. means that not only the government maintain at the highest point of efficiency but the people as a whole shall act decency the United States navy. In the needed spirit; for otherwise any great war on land we should have the folly of a few individuals to rely in the future as we have re-work lasting discredit to the whole nation. The second requisite is more soldiers; and although it is indispensably secured—let us build up and sable that our little army, an army ludicrously small relatively to the wealth and population of this mighty nation, should itself be trained to the highest point and should be valued and respected as is demanded by the worth of the officers and enlisted men, yet it is not necessary that this army should be large as compared to the armies of other great nations. But as regards the navy all this is different. We have an enormous coast line, and our coast line is on two great oceans. To repel hostile attacks the fortifications, and not the navy, must be used; but the best way to parry is to hit—not fight can ever be won except by hitting—and we can only hit by means of the navy. It is utterly impossible to improvise even a makeshift navy under the conditions of modern warfare. Since the days of Napoleon no war between two great powers has lasted as long as it would take to build a battleship, let alone a fleet of battleships; and it takes just as long to train the crew of a battle ship as it does to build it; and as regards the most important thing of all, the training of the officers, it takes much longer. The navy must be built and all its training given in time of peace. When once war has broken out it is too late to do anything. We now have a good navy, not yet large enough for our Where a navy is as small as ours, the needs, but of excellent material cardinal rule must be that the battle ships shall not be separated. This year I am happy to say that we shall begin a course which I hope will be steadily followed hereafter, that, namely, of keeping the battle ship fleet alternately in the Pacific and in the Atlantic. Early in December the fleet will begin its voyage to the Pacific, and it will number friends among its formidable fighting craft three great battle ships, named respectively, the Illinois, the Missouri, and the Kentucky. It is a national debt in every sense of the term, and its welfare should be, and I firmly believe is, as much a matter of pride and concern for every man in the farthest interior of our country as for every man on the seacoast. A long ocean voyage is mighty good training; and not the least good it will do will be to show just the points where our naval program needs strengthening. Incidentally I think the voyage will have one good effect, for, to judge by their comments on the movement, some excellent people in my own section of the country need to be reminded that the Pacific coast is exactly as much a part of this nation as the Atlantic coast.

Domestic Policy.

"So much for foreign affairs. Now for a matter of domestic policy. Here in this country we have founded a great federal democratic republic. It is a government by and for the people and therefore a genuine democracy; and the theory of our constitution is that each neighborhood shall be left to deal with the things that concern only itself and which it can most readily deal with; so that town, county, city and state have their respective spheres of duty, while the nation deals with those matters which concern all of us, all of the people, no matter where we dwell. Our democracy is based upon the belief that each individual ought to have the largest measure of liberty compatible with securing the rights of other individuals, that the average citizen, the plain man whom we meet in daily life, is normally capable of taking care of his own affairs, and has no desire to wrong anyone else; and yet that in the interest of all there shall be sufficient power lodged somewhere to prevent wicked people from trampling the weak under foot for their own gain. Our constant endeavor is to make a good working compromise whereby we shall secure the full benefit of individual initiative and responsibility, while at the same time recognizing that it is the function of a wise government under modern conditions not merely to protect life and property, but to foster the social development of the people so far as may be done by maintaining and promoting justice, honesty, and equal rights. We believe in a real, not a sham, democracy. We believe in democracy as regards political rights, as regards education, and, finally, as regards industrial conditions. By democracy we understand securing, as far as it is humanly possible to secure it, equality of opportunity, equality of the conditions under which each man is to show the stuff that is in him and to achieve the measure of success to which his own force of mind and character entitle him. Religiously this means that each man is to have the right, unimpeded by the state, to worship his creator as his conscience dictates, granting freely to others the same freedom which he asks for himself. Politically we can be said substantially to have worked out our democratic ideals, and the same is true, thanks to the common schools, in educational matters. But in industry there has not yet been the governmental growth necessary in order to meet the tremendous changes brought about in industrial conditions by steam and electricity. It is not in accordance with our principles that literally despotic power should be put into the hands of a few men in the affairs of the industrial world. Our effort must be for a just and effective plan of action, which, while scrupulously safeguarding the rights of men of wealth, shall yet, so far as is humanly possible, secure under the law to all men equality of opportunity to make a living. It is to the interest of all of us that the man of exceptional business capacity should be amply rewarded; and there is nothing inconsistent with this in our insistence that he shall not be guilty of bribery or extortion, and that the rights of the wageworker and of the man of small means, who are themselves honest and hardworking, shall be scrupulously safeguarded. The instruments for the exercise of modern industrial power are the great corporations, which, though created by the individual states, have grown far beyond the control of those states and transact their business throughout large sections of the union. These corporations, like the industrial conditions which have called them into being, did not exist when the constitution was founded; but the wise forethought of the founders provided, under the interstate commerce clause of the constitution, for the very emergency which has arisen, if only our people as a whole will realize what this emergency is; for if the people thoroughly realize it, their government representatives will soon realize it also. The national government alone has sufficiently extensive power and jurisdiction to exercise adequate control over the great interstate corporations. While this thorough supervision and control by the national government is desirable primarily in the interest of the people, it will also, I firmly believe, be to the benefit of those corporations themselves which desire to be honest and law-abiding. Only thus can we put over these corporations one competent and efficient sovereign—the nation—able both to exact justice from them and to secure justice for them, so that they may not be alternately pampered and oppressed. The proposal need be dreaded only by those corporations which do not wish to obey the law or be controlled in just fashion, but prefer to take their chances under the present lack of all system and to court the chance of getting improper favors as offsetting the chance of being blackmailed—an attitude rendered familiar in the past by those corporations which have thrived under certain corrupt and lawless city governments.

Concerning Railroads.

"The first need is to exercise this federal control in thoroughgoing and efficient fashion over the railroads, which, because of their peculiar position, offer the most immediate and urgent problem. The American people abhor a vacuum, and are determined that this control shall be exercised somewhere; it is most unsafe for the railroads not to recognize this and to submit to it as the first requisite of the situation. When this control is exercised in some such fashion as it is now exercised over the national banks, there will be no falling off in business prosperity. On the contrary, the chances for the average man to do better will be increased. Undoubtedly there will be much less opportunity than at present for a very few individuals not of the most scrupulous type to amass great fortunes by speculating in and manipulating securities which are issued without any kind of control or supervision. But there will be plenty of room left for the ample legitimate reward for business genius, while the chance for the man who is not a business genius, but who is a good, thrifty, hard-working citizen, will be better. I do not believe that our efforts will have anything but a beneficial effect upon the permanent prosperity of the country; and, as a matter of fact, even as regards any temporary effect, I think that any trouble is due fundamentally not to the fact that the national authorities have discovered and corrected certain abuses, but to the fact that those abuses were there to be discovered. I think that the excellent people who have complained of our policy hurting business have shown much the same spirit as the child who regards the dentist and not the ulcerated tooth as the real source of his woes. I am as certain as I can be of anything that the course we are pursuing will ultimately help business; for the corrupt man of business is as great a foe to this country as the corrupt politician. Both stand on the same evil eminence of infamy. Against both it is necessary to war; and if, unfortunately, in either type of warfare, a few innocent people are hurt, the responsibility lies not with us, but with those who have misled them to their hurt.

"This is a rapidly growing nation, on a new continent, and in an era of new, complex, and ever-shifting conditions. Often it is necessary to devise new methods of meeting these new conditions. We must regard the past, but we must not regard only the past. We must also think of the future; and while we must learn by experience, we cannot afford to pay heed merely to the teachings of experience. The great preacher Channing in his essay on "The Union" spoke with fine insight on this very point. In commenting on the New England statesman Cabot, whom he greatly admired, he said that nevertheless "he had too much of the wisdom of experience; he wanted what may be called the wisdom of hope." He then continued in words which have a peculiar fitness for the conditions of today: "We apprehend that it is possible to make experience too much our guide. There are seasons in human life and affairs, of inward and outward revolution, when new depths seem to be broken up in the soul, when new wants are unfolded in multitudes, and a new and undefined good is thirsted for. These are periods when the principles of experience need to be modified, when hope and trust and instinct claim a share with prudence in the guidance of affairs, when in truth to dare is the highest wisdom."

"These sentences should be carefully pondered by those men, often very good men, who forget that constructive change offers the best method of avoiding destructive change; that reform is the antidote to revolution; and that social reform is not the precursor but the preventive of socialism."

A Rock In the Baltic

"The cells hewn in the rock are completely dark, so I lost all count of time. You might think we would know night from day by the bringing in of our meals, but such was not the case. The jailer brought in a large loaf of black bread and said it was to serve me for four days. He placed the loaf on a ledge of rock about three feet from the floor which served as both table and bed. In excavating the cell this ledge had been left intact, with a bench of stone rising from the floor opposite. Indeed so ingenious had been the workmen who hewed out this room that they carved a rounded stone pillow at one end of the shelf.

"I do not know how many days I had been in prison when the explosion occurred. It made the whole rock quiver, and I wondered what had happened. Almost immediately afterward there seemed to be another explosion, not nearly so harsh, which I thought was perhaps an echo of the first. About an hour later my cell door was unlocked, and the jailer, with another man holding a lantern, came in. My third loaf of black bread was partly consumed, so I must have been in prison nine or ten days. The jailer took the loaf outside, and when he returned I asked him what had happened. He answered in a surly fashion that my American warship had fired at the rock and that the rock had struck back, whereupon she sailed away, crippled."

Dorothy, who had been listening intently to this discourse, here interrupted with:

"It was an English warship that fired the shell, and the Russian shot did not come within half a mile of her."

The sailor stared at her in wide-eyed surprise.

"You see, I have been making inquiries," she explained. "Please go on."

"I never heard that it was an English ship. The jailer sneered at me and said he was going to send me after the American vessel, as I suppose he thought it was. I feared by his taking away of the bread that it was intended to starve me to death and was sorry I had not eaten more at my last meal. I lay down on the shelf of rock and soon fell asleep. I was awakened by the water lapping around me. The cell was intensely still. Up to this I had always enjoyed the company of a little brook that ran along the side of the cell farthest from the door. Its music had now ceased, and when I sprang up I found myself to the waist in very cold water. I guessed at once the use of the levers outside the cell in the passage which I had noticed in the light of the lantern on the day I entered the place, and I knew now why it was that the prison door was not pierced by one of those gratings which enable the jailer in the passage to look into the cell any time of night or day. Prisoners have told me that the uncertainty of an inmate who never knew when he might be spied upon added to the horror of the situation, but the watertight doors of the Trozgmonhoff are free from this feature and for a very sinister reason.

"The channel in the floor through which the water runs when the cell is empty and the tunnel at the ceiling through which the water flows when the cell is full give plenty of ventilation, no matter how tightly the door may be closed. The water rose very gradually until it reached the top outlet, then its level remained stationary. I floated on the top quite easily, with as little exertion as was necessary to keep me in that position. If I raised my head, my brow struck the ceiling. The next cell to mine, lower down, was possibly empty. I heard the water pour into it like a little cataract. The next cell above and indeed all the cells in that direction were flooded like my own."

"Of course it was no trouble for me to keep afloat. My only danger was that the intense coldness of the water would numb my body beyond recovery. Still I had been accustomed to hardships of that kind before now in the frozen north. At last the gentle roar of the waterfall ceased, and I realized my cell was emptying itself. When I reached my shelf again, I stretched my limbs back and forth as strenuously as I could and as silently, for I wished no sound to give any hint that I was still alive, if, indeed, sound could penetrate to the passage, which is unlikely. Even before the last of the water had run away from the cell I lay stretched out at full length on the floor, hoping I might have steadiness enough to remain death quiet when the men came in with the lantern. I need have had no fear. The door was opened, one of the men picked me up by the heels and, using my legs as if they were the shafts of a wheelbarrow, dragged me down the passage to the place where the stream emerged from the last cell, and into this torrent he flung me. There was one swift, brief moment of darkness, then I shot, feet first, into space and dropped down, down, down through the air like a plummet into the arms of my mother."

"Into what?" cried Dorothy, white and breathless, thinking the recital of these agonies had turned the man's brain.

"The Baltic, madam, is the Finlander's mother. It feeds him in life, carries him whither he wishes to go, and every true Finlander hopes to die in her bosom."

eastern side of the rock?"

"Practically none, madam. The steamer stood out, and when I was landed in the cove I spoke of at the foot of the stairway."

"It wouldn't be possible to bring a steamer like the Walrus alongside the rock, then?"

"It would be possible in calm weather, but very dangerous even then."

"Could you find that rock if you were in command of a ship sailing the Baltic?"

"Oh, yes, madam."

"If twenty or thirty determined men were landed on the stairway, do you think they could capture the garrison?"

"Yes, if they were landed secretly, but one or two soldiers at the top with repeating rifles might hold the stairway against an army while their ammunition lasted."

"But if a shell were fired from the steamer might not the attacking company get inside during the confusion among the defenders?"

"That is possible, madam, but a private steamer firing shells or, indeed, landing a hostile company runs danger of meeting the fate of a pirate."

"You would not care to try it, then?"

"Oh, I should be delighted to try it if you allow me to select the crew. I can easily get aboard the small arms and ammunition necessary, but I am not so sure about the cannon."

"Very good. I need not warn you to be extremely cautious regarding those you take into your confidence. Meanwhile I wish you to communicate with the official who is authorized to sell the yacht. I am expecting a gentleman tomorrow in whose name the vessel will probably be bought, and I am hoping he will accept the captaincy of it."

"Is he capable of filling that position, madam? Is he a sailor?"

"He was for many years captain in the United States navy. I offer you the position of mate, but I will give you captain's pay and a large bonus in addition if you faithfully carry out my plans, whether they prove successful or not. I wish you to come here at this hour tomorrow with whoever is authorized to sell or charter the steamer. You may say I am undecided whether to buy or charter. I must consult Captain Kempton on that point."

"Thank you, madam. I shall be here this time tomorrow."

IT WILL DO EVERYTHING BUT TALK.

This is what Mr. Joseph Desberger, one of the progressive merchants of this city, says in describing a wonderful machine he has just installed in his Grand Leader store on Broadway.

Mr. Desberger's customers are showing an unusual interest in this machine. First, because of its wonderful mechanism; and second, because it assures them that they are doing business in a store where mistakes are at a minimum.

The machine in question is the latest and most approved type of an electrically operated National Cash Register, which is being used in connection with a cashier system. This register is the first and only one of this style in Paducah. It combines the functions of a mechanical cashier, a bookkeeper and a judge.

It was sold to Mr. Desberger by M. B. Cook, salesmen for the N. C. R. company, at 603 North Seventh street, this city.

The register is what is known as a multiple counter register. In reality it is four registers in one, inasmuch as the four different kinds of transactions of the store have a separate adding counter, viz: Cash sales, charge sales, money received on account, and money paid out.

It is a "Multiple door" machine also. It will do nearly all things a man can do in a store, except sell goods and dust the cases, and do all better than a man can. As a cashier, it is fast and always on hand; as a bookkeeper, it never makes an error; as a judge, it is absolutely fair and without prejudice in settling any disputes that may arise.

Men can, and all men do, make mistakes. A machine which has been properly assembled cannot make a mistake. Mr. Desberger's register can't help being perfect. It is made that way.

As mentioned above, the register cannot talk, and therefore, it is a congenial thing to have around. It can, however, make signs. Further it can print. It has a complete printing plant somewhere in its insides and it makes a record of

MOTOR FASCINATION WAS APPEASED

I. C. Shop Man Not Success as Chauffeur.

Machine Misses Culvert and Party Is Thrown to Ground—Damage Was Not Serious.

FATTY FALLS ON TOP O. K.

A steadily growing fascination for motoring, which came to a head last evening, caused Ed Wheeler, foreman of the Illinois Central tin and pipe fitting shops, a general shakeup to say nothing of several hours work for his wife in mending his "Sunday best" clothes. This morning he laboriously made his way through his department at the shop, every step and movement recalling his experiences of the night before.

Clarence Ellithorpe owns a small buckboard automobile runabout, and Wheeler often watched the big man chasin spinning along. Ellithorpe invited him to ride last evening and the invitation did not have to be repeated. Wheeler climbed into the seat and for several miles enjoyed the ride. Turning towards town they increased speed, letting the little machine out to full speed. Wheeler's first "auto fright" had worn off, and he timidly suggested steering the auto. Ellithorpe handed him the lever, and Wheeler held it firmly until in the darkness he failed to observe a culvert with projecting boards. With a bound the little machine took it, but Wheeler, taken by surprise, released the lever to grab sides of his seat.

Quick as a flash the machine veered and went into the ditch on the right, the side Wheeler sat on. Ellithorpe, whose weight is a little less than 250, piled out a fraction of a second after Wheeler, and was surprised at the softness of his bed. He had fallen on Wheeler.

Two surprised and well shaken forms rose to survey the machine. The little motor was still kicking madly, turned upside down, but little damage was done, and the pair was able to return to town in it.

YOUNG GIRL ATTEMPTED TO POISON ENTIRE FAMILY.

Madisonville, Ky., Oct. 3.—Cora Claxton, white, about 13 years old, was arrested late last night at the residence of Amos Hooks, about three miles north of here, where she had sought refuge. She is accused of attempting to poison the entire family of Silas Carlyle with paris green. The child says that the family was "mean" to her and she took this means to get even.

She had put half a handful of the poison in a coffee pot just before supper and had stuffed a teaspoonful in the baby's mouth. Some of the poison had spilled on the baby's dress and Mrs. Carlyle's attention was attracted to it. When it was found to be paris green, search was instituted. It was found that the coffee pot and water bucket had been partly filled with the poison. The girl does not seem to realize the enormity of the offense and expresses herself as sorry that the attempt failed. The girl was a domestic in the Carlyle family.
